

William Hohenberger

Engineer, Philosopher,
Author, Businessman
Age: 78

28958 State Route 281
Defiance, Ohio 43512
419-789-4966
wrh@defnet.com

BSEE, 1968
Indiana Institute of Technology

Publications:

"Perceptions - A Symphony of Words" 1994 (out of print)

"Divine Revelations - The Essence of all Things" 2016
(available on EBay and at Amazon.com)

Introduction:

I graduated in June of 1968 with a BSEE and was immediately drafted into the US Army and served near Mannheim, Germany for almost two years. After discharge from the Army I started my engineering career at Magnavox. I realized the first idea for my book "Divine Revelations" in 1975, but kept it to myself because it was so revolutionary. My career was doing great until 1984 when my 5 year old son died during open heart surgery from a single ventricle birth defect.

After the trauma of losing my son, I was no longer interested in Engineering; and introspectively committed myself to figuring out how this world we live in actually works. So I kept working on my philosophical ideas and started a business for sustenance. Accordingly, my first priority since the death of my son has been the philosophical ideas presented in my book.

Experiences:

Indiana Institute of Technology
Student 1964-1968
BSEE, 1968

US Army 1968-1970
Ft. Knox Kentucky, Ft Lee Virginia,
Mannheim, Germany

Magnavox Consumer Products Division
Components Engineer
Ft, Wayne, Indiana 1970-1975

Dinner Bell Foods
Vice President, Engineering
Defiance, Ohio 1975-1985

Business Owner
Rental Properties
1988 - 2025